Singapore Airlines and Michelin-starred chef Heiko Nieder launch collaboration in Switzerland

From 1 July 2022, the premium airline will be offering gourmet Swiss cuisine on all flights from Zurich to Singapore.

Zurich, 29 June 2022 – Singapore Airlines today announced the first culinary collaboration with one of Switzerland’s most renowned Michelin-starred chefs: from 1 July 2022, first-class and business-class passengers will be served exclusive dishes by Heiko Nieder. The Chef Fine Dining & Culinary Director of the five-star superior hotel Dolder Grand has created innovative menus specially for Singapore Airlines, and they will be offered on all flights from Zurich to Singapore.

First-class passengers can for example look forward to lobster, foie gras with mango, seaweed and vadouvan, a special Indian spice blend. “To complete the experience, Krug Champagne will be served,” says Nieder, who is an ambassador for the maison. For business-class passengers, the menu includes an appetiser of prawns with melon, seasoned with coriander, tarragon and green curry, and a main course of veal cheeks with Emmental cheese, accompanied by chanterelles and horseradish. The desserts also offer novel, refined delights for the palate, including such surprises as white chocolate paired with cherries, green olives and fragrant herbs de Provence.

“It is for me at once a great joy and an honour to create dishes for one of the world’s best airlines and to make the 12-hour flight even more comfortable with my cuisine”, says Nieder. “I also find it to be an extremely stimulating challenge to provide a gourmet dining experience at 30,000 to 40,000 feet and, despite the somewhat problematic conditions, to guarantee top quality and taste – especially with sweet and salty dishes.”
